RUSSIA GIVES STEAM SHOVEL ORDER HERE

Six Machines To Be Delivered to Soviets in June, July, August.

PLANT TO INCREASE HOURS

No Additional Men Will Be Needed To Turn Out Units.

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. has received an order from the Russian government for six shovels.

The shovels, according to J. H. Waters, president, are of three-yard capacity and represent approximately a $300,000 order.

As a result of the order, practically all the mechanical departments will be placed on a four-day week schedule. Although the order will not require the employment of additional men, it will represent a considerable increase in the activities of the shop.

Delivery dates call for two shovels each month in June, July and August. As the shovels are thus on a rush order, no additional men will be required to complete them in time for deliveries.

This order, in connection with the work on hand, it is stated, will probably result in placing the shops on a nine-hour basis for the present.

PILOT HURT AS PLANE CRASHES TO STREET

Craft Rips Away Section of House in Columbus Residential District.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 30 — Edward Rice, 26, was in a serious condition today with injuries received when his airplane plunged into a residential street here late yesterday.

The plane, after flying low over the neighborhood for several minutes, suddenly dived and tore away the corner of a housetop and severed two high tension wires before it crashed into the street.

Current from the wires ignited the right wing but Rice was rescued before the flames reached him. The plane was demolished. Rice was the only occupant.

Witnesses said the motor was running smoothly but the plane seemed to be out of control. The pilot, apparently trying to gain altitude, nosed up and down several times, finally striking a tree and then the house.

OHIOAN LIVES WITH GANDHI

Boyd Tucker of Mansfield One of Two Americans with Indian Leader.

BOTH DRESS AS HINDUS

By The Associated Press

KARACHI, India, March 30 — A silent, wordless Gandhi, squatting, sphinxlike in the center of 40,000 souls, downed active opposition to his creed by sheer force of personality last night, and put the annual meeting of the All-India National congress on record as favoring most of the things for which he has fought.

Tonight, when the burning desert sands which surround Karachi have cooled somewhat, the congress will indorse most of the remaining principles of his policy, and give its sanction to the recent truce with Viceroy Lord Irwin at New Delhi which ended the civil disobedience campaign.

Among resolutions passed by the body were those condemning the liquor traffic and advocating woman suffrage.

Countless thousands passed by Gandhi in an eloquent mass obeisance to their leader. Women rushed to kiss his feet.

Attracting almost as much attention as Gandhi here are two Americans, known as his friends, who have adopted Hindu dress and habits, and live side by side with the Mahatma. They are Carlton Washburn, superintendent of schools at Winetka, Ill., who is making a study of educational conditions abroad for the Rosenwald foundation in Chicago, and Boyd W. Tucker of Mansfield, O.

Tucker formerly was connected with the Methodist Episcopal missionary organization, and is now associated with the school of the Indian poet, Sir Rabindranath Tagore. The Ohioan goes barefooted and eats Hindu ritualistic food

C. D. SCHAFFNER RECEIVER FOR CITIZENS' LOAN

TO PROTECT DEPOSITORS

President Says Funds of Company Tied Up in Real Estate Investmnets.

Appointment of C. D. Schaffner, Marion real estate dealer, as receiver for the Citizens' Building & Loan Co. was made today by Common Pleas Judge George B. Scofield upon application by L. D. Zachman, president and a stockholder of the company. The bond of the receiver was placed at $100,000.

In his petition filed in common pleas court, Zachman said that the loan company would be unable to meet notices for withdrawal in the amount of $463,900 filed by depositors.

Funds in Real Estate

He said the company's funds were invested in mortgages on Marion real estate which he believed to be good. In asking for a receiver, he said a forced sale would cause a heavy loss to stockholders, creditors and depositors.

Zachman said a receiver was necessary to safeguard the interests of persons having money deposited in the loan company.

The state building and loan department was notified Saturday of the action planned by the local company. Frank S. McQuire, state superintendent of building and loan associations, and members of the board of the company met with Judge Scofield this morning in chambers. McGuire assented and concurred in the action taken.

Plans Incomplete

Following a conference with Judge Scofield at noon today, Schaffner accepted the appointment as receiver. He is preparing to furnish the bond required by the court.

Assets of the loan company were $2,956,789.72 as at the close of business Saturday. Deposits are approximately $2,500,000.

Seen by The Star, this afternoon, President Zschman made the following statement:

"Under the rules and regulations of building and loan companies' patrons desiring money which they have in the associations must file a written notice to that effect. However, under normal conditions, this rule is not enforced by any company.

"Owing to the economic depression through which we are passing, conditions have arisen which brought about the filing of these notices to the extent of $463,900 within our company.

"Building and loan companies do business on such a slender margin of profit that they must at once

FRED BURKE HEARING IS SET FOR APRIL 8

Gunman Begins Fight Against Life Term by Refusing To Waive Examination.

By The Associated Press

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 30—Fred Burke began a determined fight against life imprisonment for murder today, refusing to waive examination when arraigned for the killing of Charles Skelly, St. Joseph policeman. He was held for examination April 8, before justice of the peace Joseph Collier.

The big gunman, called the nation's most desperate killer, was camera shy, as usual and kept his shifting brown eyes averated from photographers, his arraignment took place in a tiny ante-room of the county jail, to which only a handful of officers, camera men and three or four newspaper reporters were admitted.

Burke indicated he would plead not guilty at his April 8 appearance, then lapsed into stolid silence. Prosecutor Wilbur Cunningham, his assistant, and the sheriff went into conference with Burke after the 10-minute hearing before Justice Collier but they said afterwards they could not induce the prisoner to talk.

Barratt O'Hara, Chicago lawyer who defended Virgil Kirkland, in his trial for the murder of his Gary schoolgirl sweetheart, visited Burke for a few moments today. Burke made no comment, however, except to say he would have an attorney Tuesday.

Chicago detectives, having yielded to Michigan's claim after failing to get Burke to talk about the Moran gang massacre of which he is suspected, apparently abandoned interest in him.

"I'm going to fight this case," Burke declared almost immediately after he had been brought here in a bullet-proof armored car from St. Joseph, Mo., to answer for the slaying of Joseph Skalay, a traffic policeman.

Ignoring a blinding sleet storm thousands of St. Joseph citizens crowded before the jail to see the return of the notorious gunman,

She announced that she would stand by Burke.

Bucyrus Judge Sets July 23 as Execution Date for Crestline Negroes.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 30—Blanton and Walter Ralls, Negroes, were sentenced to die in the electric chair July 23 when brought before Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl at 1:30 p. m. today. Sentence was given after Judge Ahl had over ruled motions for new trial and arrest of judgment.

Both wept when they heard the death sentences. Walter Ralls, married and the wife of three children, thanked the court and attorneys for what he said was a fair trial. Blanton Ralls also spoke briefly.

The men were found guilty of first degree murder in the killing of Sheriff Davenport Jan. 23 when he attempted to arrest them.

They probably will be taken to Ohio penitentiary this week. Their only hope to escape electruction is through a governor's pardon.

With their sentencing today, the Crawford county common pleas court had sent five men to the electric chair within five months. Massa, McCartney and Sites were sentenced last October for killing Ralph Wilcox, Galion filling station attendant.

Plea of Woman Brings Downfall of Holdup Man

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., March 30 — The pleading note in a woman's voice was responsible today for James R. McGuire's overnight stay in the city lockup.

Last night he leisurely arose from his table in a restaurant and announced to patrons:

"Line up there against the wall; I'm holding this place up."

"Aw, you wouldn't do that, would you?" a woman begged.

"Oh, well, I guess I won't, then," McGuire replied, executing an about-face and leaving the restaurant.

In his hurry to leave, and evidently flurried at being balked in his task, police said McGuire left his overcoat, hat and gloves behind. He was arrested when he called at police headquarters to ask if they had been found.

VERMONT ELECTION SET FOR TUESDAY

Republican Leaders Confident of Victory Despite Bitterness Over Primary.

By The Associated Press

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 30—Vermont tomorrow in a special election, will choose a United States senator to succeed the late Frank L. Greene.

Warren R. Austin, Republican and dry, who won a surprise victory over his machine-backed rival, U. S. Senator Frank C. Partridge, in the primary, will be opposed by Stephen M. Driscoll, Democrat and wet.

Senator Partridge, who was appointed to fill the vacancy created by Senator Green's death, had the strong support of the regular Republican organization and political observers believe that bitterness engendered by his defeat may have weakened the Republican cause. Republican nomination, however, has always been tantamount to election in this state, and Republican leaders are confident of victory tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

LAMAR, Colo., March 30—Bryan Untiedt, 13-year-old school boy, who survived a 36-hour ordeal in a snowdrift trapped bus, recuperated in a hospital here today.

Five perished Friday in the battle against hunger and freezing winds in a stalled Summit Hill bus. Bryan sought to drive his companions out of lethargy when they drooped in zero cold.

"My daddy will find us," he said. His father, H. A. Untiedt, was one of the first to reach the snow-filled machine.

Opening the door Untiedt saw two children lying on the floor in the front of the bus. One of them was his son, Arlo, 9, and the other, Rosemary Miller, 9, daughter of the bus driver, who lost his life when he braved the storm to bring aid. Both died soon after being rushed to a ranch house.

Perishes Seeking Aid

Carl Miller, 35, the driver, was prophetic in his last statement to the children as he left for aid, the survivors revealed. As he left he said: "God bless you children, we

G. W. ACKLEY TO FACE WEST VIRGINIA COURT

Marion Man Taken to Spencer, Roane County, by Officers.

George W. Ackley, local real estate man, today was awaiting arraignment at Spencer, W. Va., on an indictment charging arson in connection with a fire which destroyed the Spencer hotel last October.

Ackley was returned to Spencer Saturday afternoon following his arrest here Friday. He waived extradition and was returned by Howard Welcher, special representative of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and Assistant State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper.

He said that Ackley held title to the Spencer hotel and that he was in that town the day before the hotel burned. According to Raper insurance on the building was increased to $30,000 two days before the building was destroyed. He claimed the evidence on which Ackley was indicted was largely circumstantial.

Ackley denied any knowledge of how the fire started when interviewed in county jail here Saturday. He said he was in Marion at the time.

PRESIDENT BACK

Finds Desk Piled High With Accumulated Work.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30 — President Hoover faced a desk piled high today with accumulated work as he returned from 11 days of rest and recreation.

The executive reached Washington early last night from Old Point Comfort, Va., where he disembarked from the battleship Arizona which had been the floating White House for a trip to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Three days of the 11 he had spent seeing and studying conditions in the Caribbean possessions. The rest of the time was spent doing nothing.

In addition to a natural accumulation of mail the President had before him the troublesome fact that government income threatened to be $700,000,000 less than government expenses. Income tax paymnets were falling far short of the figures for a year ago.

THIRD MAN QUESTIONED

Effort Made To Clear Up Other Robberies in This Section of State.

Two Marion men today were identified by a dozen Mansfield Kroger store managers as two of three robbers who held them up at various times during the last few weeks, according to the Associated Press. A third Marion man is being held for questioning in connection with the holdups.

Police of several north central Ohio cities are attempting to link a series of holdups and thefts in the last few months with the men. Meager descriptions obtained after holdups lead police to believe that quizzing the men will clear up a long list of criminal activities.

The men whose pictures were identified by the store managers are Samuel Burchen and Forest Dickson. Carl Durtche, who was with Burchen when he was arrested at Galion recently, is being held for questioning.

Marion police have cooperated with departments in other cities at various times to connect the men with the holdups. The men are suspected of several minor thefts here.

Equal Chance

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., March 30—Mr. Hoover just got back from Porto Rico after a call with our little dark brown cousins.

He told 'em he would see that they had the same opportunities we enjoy here, so I guess he is having Charley Otis and Company, stock brokers, put in a branch down there. That will give them a leisure class, and the rest of 'em employment working for 'em.

The president don't think much of the Virgin Islands. He thought we were bunked on that deal. I think myself we was perhaps influenced by the title. We are mighty good colonizers.

We ought to sell (or give away to some enemy) our island holdings, and concentrate entirely on the old headquarters ranch here at home.

PHI PSI FRATERNITY WINS TOURNAMENT

BEATS NILES QUINT IN FINAL GAME 36-26

Columbus Wiles Collegians Easy Victor in Consolation Contest with Green Camp.

PHI KAPPA PSI fraternity basketball team of Ohio Wesleyan University Saturday night won the first annual north central Ohio amateur basketball tournament in the Star auditorium by defeating Niles Kreegers 36 to 26. The Phi Psi team is composed of Ohio Wesleyan varsity cagers while the Niles outfit was made up of the Muskingum college players.

The Phi Psi-Niles game concluded a tournament in which 29 teams started competition on Thursday night.

In the consolation game of the tournament the Wiles Collegians of Columbus took an easy 54 to 31 victory over the Green Camp Independents, Green Camp never had a chance with the Collegians, the capital city five scoring nearly at will.

Always Ahead

The Phi Psi-Niles game, slowed up somewhat on account of the tiredness of both teams as a result of previous hard games the same day, was a battle from start to finish. Niles jumped into a slight lead at the start of the game but could not hold it after the fraternity team started clicking. The score at the half was 18-14 for the winners.

A short lived rally in the third frame constituted the sole threat of Niles to the lead of the Phi Psi team. The Wesleyan boys soon broke up the rally and coasted through to the championship.

The consolation game of the tournament between Green Camp and Wiles Collegians provided little else other than a scoring exhibition by George Van Hyde, former Ohio State star, playing forward for the Collegians. Van Hyde dropped a total of 26 points through the net to take the individual scoring honors of the tournament and also ring up the high single game score.

Green Camp climaxed its excellent showing in the tournament by upsetting the Y-Indus team 17-16 in the afternoon.

How to Get Relief From Catarrh

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, go to Henney & Cooper or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength); take this home, add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant and costs little. Every one who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial. You will probaby find it is just what you need.—Adv.

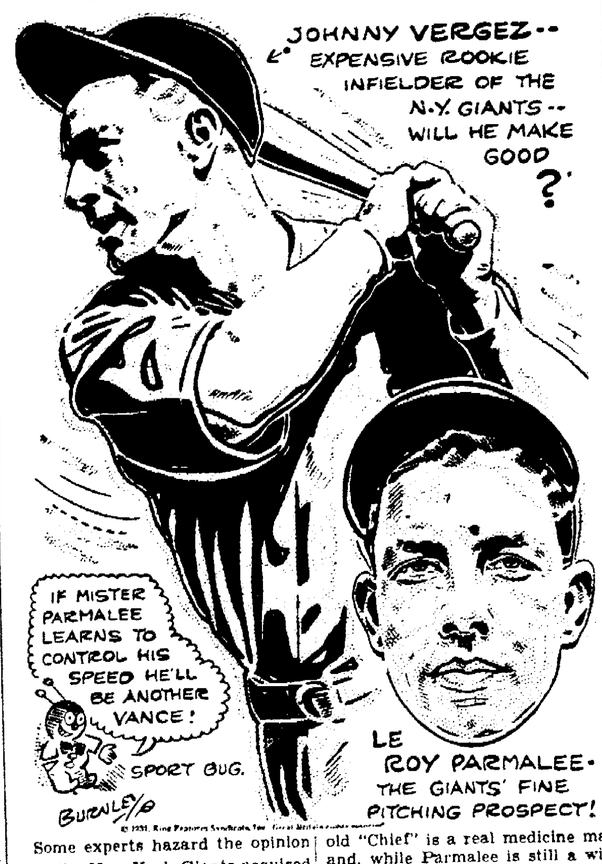
Giants In The Making



JOHNNY VERGEZ-- EXPENSIVE ROOKIE INFIELDER OF THE N.Y. GIANTS -- WILL HE MAKE GOOD ?
IF MISTER PARMALEE LEARNS TO CONTROL HIS SPEED HE'LL BE ANOTHER VANCE!
SPORT BUG.
LE ROY PARMALEE- THE GIANTS' FINE PITCHING PROSPECT!
BURNLEY/B

Some experts hazard the opinion that the New York Giants acquired a Dazzy Vance in the powerful form of LeRoy "Buddy" Parmalee who used to hunt rabbits with rocks in his barefoot days back in Lambertville, Mich. "Bud" has blistering speed and the essential hop on his fast one but, as is usual with such talent, his control is uncertain. He's been toiling for weeks to remedy that fault under the special tutelage of that past master of the pitching art, "Chief" Bender. And the latter sincerely believes that Parmalee will burn up the league some day because, as the "Chief" remarks, "the boy has everything save sufficient control."

Parmalee is 23 years old, weighs 195 pounds when in perfect condition, looms upward about 6 feet, and has Carnera-like claws that clutch the ball as though it were a die.

When put under the supervision of Bender, Parmalee was so wild that he had difficulty in getting most of his pitches near his catcher let alone the home plate. But the old "Chief" is a real medicine man and, while Parmalee is still a wild 'un, his control is improving under the patient and expert instruction of the old master.

Though Parmalee appears to be a gem of a rookie, the Giants had an even brighter prospect in Johnny Vergez, who was scheduled to take over Freddie Lindstorm's place at third base. This 22-year-old product of the Pacific Coast League did not perform well at bat during the training season, and so Lindstorm's debut as a regular outfielder may have to be postponed.

Vergez comes to the Giants from Oakland via Alameda High school, San Antonio and Ogden. He was a hard hitter and he may soon acquire the knack of hitting major league pitching.

John McGraw is seldom impatient with carefully scouted rookies. And so Vergez may make third after a little more seasoning with the willow. Meanwhile, at this writing, "Lindy" is flitting about the outfeld in a most satisfactory manner.

1929 Racing Champ Enters Two Cars at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, March 30 — Louis Meyer, youthful 1929 automobile racing champion, will have two cars in the 500-mile race here in May.

One will be the 16-cylinder Sampson Special which Meyer and his crack mechanic, Riley Brett built up last year and with which Meyer won the first two laps of the race only to falter by the wayside later in the contest due to a minor mechanical mishap.

The other will be a car powered with a brand new, 8-cylinder Miller motor incorporating many new ideas in engineering.

It is likely that Meyer will remain true to his 16-clyinder racing love and pilot that car which he built with such tender care, turning the second mount over to a pilot yet to be chosen.

Meyer, one of the most studious youngsters of the present generation of speedway stars, takes his racing very seriously. For an entire year he worked on the car which he drove in last summer's contest. At the start of the race he flasned into the lead and held it until the third round when Billy Arnold took the pace never to be headed.

There is some conjecture as to the driver Meyer will select to pilot his second car. Alden Sampson, the youthful racing angel who provided the cash for the car with which Meyer won the Indianapolis race in 1929, is feeling the urge to drive. There is every likelihood that he will get one of the cars to the track very early, submit himself to a vigorous training campaign to decide if he is capable of handling a car in the long drive.

Riley Brett, Meyer's mechanic, is one of the real veterans around the Indianapolis track. In fact he once took a whirl at driving himself. But now he is content to prepare the cars and direct his drivers from the pit. He knows every angle of the speed sport and is somewhat of an engineer.

He was heartbroken when the 16-cylinder car he prepared last fall failed to make a better showing. It was a novel power plant composed of two eight cylinder motors placed side by side. Had it not been for a minor mechanical mishap the car would have been difficult to beat. In fact Billy Arnold would have been hard pushed by Meyer had the Sampson Special remained in the running.

By The Associated Press

BOWIE, Md., March 30—One hundred and eleven thoroughbreds from the finest stables of the country were ready today to face the barrier at the mile track here as the curtain goes up on the spring racing program in the east, and the proceeds of the day go to the Baltimore relief agencies caring for the city's unemployed destitute. One day has been added to the program of the Bowie, Havre De Grace and Pimlico meets to raise money for the needy. The state has waived its license fee and employes working in the parimutuel department to contribute a part of their wages. With the addition of a day to the program the spring meet at the track here will continue 12 days and so many horses have been brought here for the meet that all available stable room at the track has been taken and horses have been sent to quarters at Laurel and Pimlico.

Of 111 entries to appear in today's seven races include: Play Tap, Ormonds Play, Butter John, John Barton, Trice, Line of Fire, Daddy Nelson and Sergeant Donaldson.

The card for the day was prepared on limited notice as the regular meet will not get under way until tomorrow. The feature race of tomorrow will be the inaugural handicap for $5,000 added. More than a score of sprinters will go to the barrier in this race.

Pros Commence Final Winter Golf Tournament

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30—An array of professionals was here today in quest of the last big money prize of the year's tournament season—the $5,000 Southeastern open.

The entry list, an even hundred, read like a roll-call of golfdom's money seekers who have followed the golden trail from California, and Mexico, through to Florida and North Carolina.

The question of the biggest winner of the winter season is yet to be determined, and Gene Sarazen and Johnny Golden are here to settle the matter. Sarazen now leads the field with a total of $8,325 to Golden's $7,340. George Von Elm, business man-golfer has won $617 more than Golden, but he is not entered.

YOUNG HEAVYWEIGHT GETS TEST AGAINST RISKO OF CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 30—The week's fistic entertainment opens in double-barreled fashion tonight at New York and Philadelphia.

Poreda has been given expert handling so far. Slowly he has been brought along until now his handlers think he is ready to step out into the big time.

A heavy hitter, Poreda nevertheless will be on the short end of the betting at ring-time tonight. Risko, called the "spoiler," because he has ruined the title hopes of so many first-class heavyweights, and the betting fraternity feels old John's experience will be too much of a handicap for Poreda to hurdle.

Philadelphia's show is topped by a ten round bout between Benny Bass, junior lightweight champion, and young Firpo of Pennsgrove, N. J. Bass' title will not be at stake.

GRAIN PRICES IN DOWNTREND

Lack of Aggressive Buying Causes Further Decline of Values.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 30—All grains went downward in price early today as a result of absence of any aggressive buying. Auspicious weather and crop reports regarding domestic winter wheat had a bearish effect, especially heavy snows in the Texas pan-handle.

Switching of wheat brokers to the largest trading pit on the exchange floor, whereas corn brokers returned to their former quarters took place smoothly, the change being well understood beforehand

Wheat opened ½c lower to ⅛ up, and afterward showed an additional sag. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ off, and subsequently receded all around.

Corn dropped to fresh low price records for the season, and carried wheat down also to new bottom records, reaching levels unequaled in many years. Selling was ascribed largely to a report from the United States department of agriculture that farmers' intentions to increase corn acreage this year almost 5 per cent would be likely to result in the largest corn crop in this country since 1923, and that corn prices could be expected to go to a lower level. Oats weakened with other cereals. Aside from notice of an ideal outlook for domestic winter wheat growth and also aside from corn market weakness, a further bearish factor was likelihood of intensified Russian competition owing to word that the Rome conference to solve the problem of the international wheat surplus had virtually collapsed. In this connection, it was announced that although North American breadstuff exports were slightly larger than last year the total to date was very much below that of the year previous owing to Russian shipments and to world financial depression.

Provisions were relatively firm owing to hog market upturns

RUTH CHATTERTON. Enough said about any picture, to insure its entertainment, but something must be said of her latest picture, "Unfaithful," coming to the Palace Tuesday.

Ruth Chatterton

The story was written by John Van Druten.

Marion people who followed the activities of the Hartman Stock Company in Columbus, will recognize the name of Donald Cook. He played in stock there for several seasons and was one of the most popular of the company's cast. He has an important role in this picture as the brother of Miss Chatterton.

BERNICE CLAIRE PLAYS LEAD IN "KISS ME AGAIN"

MODERNIZED "Mlle. Modiste," plays at the Ohio tonight through Wednesday as "Kiss Me Again," the name of the world-wide popular song.

Bernice Claire is a charming "Mlle. Fifi," a Parisian seamstress in the fashion palace of "Mme. Cecile." She is in love with the dashing Walter Pidgeon, but gives him up when his father tells her that a marriage beneath his son's station would be his ruin. She accepts money from Pidgeon's father, to go abroad to study singing. Pidgeon's fiancee, June Collyer, is in love with Edward Everett Horton. Miss Claire becomes a famous opera singer and returns to Paris to sing at a ball given by Pidgeon's father in honor of his homecoming.

Pidgeon threatens to leave home permanently if his father continues to disagree to his marriage with Miss Claire. Claude Gillingwater, the father, finally consents, just in time to discover that his daughter June has eloped with Edward Everett Horton. Victor Herbert's music is charming.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT AT PAL... TONIGHT

Claudette Colbert and Fredric March are the entire length of "Honor Among Lovers," at the Palace tonight, in getting their differences straightened out. The interim in which she is unhappily married and accused of infidelity by her husband, makes a good picture.

Miss Colbert, a secretary in March's investment brokerage offices, marries Monroe Owsley against March's advice. March is in love with her and knows that Owsley has a woefully weak character. Nevertheless he gives Owsley a big account. Owsley speculates secretly in wild stock, involving March's money. To save her husband from disgrace, Miss Colbert goes to March and gets a check for $100,000. Friend husband believes she has been untrue to him and goes to March's room with a gun. March is wounded, and Owsley lays the blame on his wife. The truth comes out when Owsley is grilled by police and left alone to talk with his wife. March goes to their apartment in time to hear Miss Colbert announcing that she is leaving Owlsley. Draw your own conclusions.

The voudeville program was among the best yet. The two Valentino girls won a big hand for their piano accordion playing. The Jack Roberts Co. act was good and the Magic Fountain Revue of girls and men was entertaining.

NAVAL BATTLE AT MARION

George O'Brien, commander of a mystery shap and a submarine has offered to find and sink a raiding German U-boat. He meets and is attracted by Marion Lessing, sister of the German submarine commander and herself a spy. He discovers her real identity.

There's a great battle between O'Brien's ship and the German U-boat, with Miss Lessing on board. O'Brien rescues all on board the German craft and offers Miss Lessing a chance to come with him She tells him her duty is with her people—but that later—why go on?

Gaylord Pendleton has an important bit as the ensign who slips aboard the German re-fueling ship and sets it afire. He's killed. Mona Maris is seen in a short scene in which Pendleton is drugged and kept from sailing with O'Brien.

Chance for Recovery Seen in Wheat Price Situation

Outlook Following Government Plans for Withdrawal of Artificial Support Analyzed by Ohio Research Director.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 30—Wheat prices are now in a position to recover, according to C. J. West, research director of the Ohio Farm Bureau. West says that wheat had to take its deflation just as did copper and many other commodities. The artifical load is not yet removed from the wheat market, but the effect of this load on the market has now shown up, so that it is now possible for the recovery to set in. The wheat market was artificially supported by the government and the result was an enormous surplus which the world would not take at the prices asked.

"The copper market some months ago was supported by the companies, themselves, and an enormous surplus was created, which likewise the world would not take at the prices asked. The copper price was set at 18 cents and higher. After the control was broken, prices dropped to 10 and 11 cents. The drop in wheat prices has not been proportionally any more drastic than occurred in copper.

Prices Depends on Buyer

"The farmer has not been receiving proper attention in comparison with other industries, and yet the farmer cannot hope to be freed from economic influences. In the end, the buyer sets the price. The best the farmer can hope for is that he may obtain a proper share of the prices which the buyer pa, a.

"All over the world and in other industries, artificial restraint and controls are failing. The difficulties at present are too deep seated to be removed by any patent medicine methodies or remedies.

"Wheat has a definite place in Ohio farming and no one to date has proposed a satisfactory substitute. The returns from the wheat crops are received only in part as grain. Plowed ground can be turned into meadow much easier with a wheat crop than in any other way. Rye can be used to some extent, but it is not altogether satisfactory.

"The revision of farm methods so as to eliminate wheat is possible on some farms, but this can be done only after careful planning. It was thought for a while that the soy bean would relieve the situation and soy beans have proved to be a valuable crop, but it does not take the place of wheat on very many farms.

World Wide Growing Area

"With a great world area which can be devoted to the raising of wheat there is not a great opportunity for very much profit in wheat production. Two favorite items appear in the situation, however. As financial conditions improve the consumption of wheat may increase. In time, an increase may possibly be noted in eastern countries. The second favorable item is the probability that our domestic wheat production may drop to a point where a tariff will be continuously effective.

"Wheat suffers because it is largely in the starchy food class. There are so many possibilities for substitutes in starchy foods. Livestock production, on the other hand, leads largely to the protein types of food, where competition is not so severe.

"Perhaps we are not yet thoroughly convinced that there is not some magic method which can be applied to wheat marketing and which will lead to higher prices. Perhaps we shall see further governmental attempts to interfer with the natural influences of supply and demand on prices."

Marion Man Gets Lease On Municipal Airport

Harold C. Cobb To Operate Flying School and Passenger Service at Local Field; City Officials Accept Bid of $360 a Year, with Renewal Privilege.

Lease of Marion airport to Harold W. Cobb of Marion for $360 for one year with the privilege of renewal was decided on Saturday afternoon by the city board of control. The board also decided to award contracts for the purchase of materials needed by the service department and a street maintainer.

Mr. Cobb will take over the port April 1 after a lease for one year at $360 has been drawn by City Solicitor Carter Patton early next week. Mr. Cobb has the privilege of renewing the lease for one year at the same price and the third year for $420 under terms submitted in his bid.

To Operate School

It is Mr. Cobb's plan to make Marion airport an authorized Curtiss-Wright distributing point and to operate a flying school and passenger service at the port, he says.

His two bids were the only ones submitted to the board for lease of the port. An alternative bid provided a rental fee plus a per cent of the port income.

Contract for the purchase of a street maintainer was let to the Huber Manufacturing Co. at its bid of $2,545. This figure was the lowest submitted on the type of machine bought. It is equipped with rubber crawlers.

The maintainer will be bought with gasoline tax and auto license money for the maintenance of the city's streets. It will replace a worn out machine.

Various Marion concerns shared in the award of contracts for materials needed by the service department in 1931 work. All materials also will be purchased with gasoline tax and auto license money.

Amiesite Bid

The Amiesite Products Co. of Columbus with a plant located northeast of Marion on the Pennsylvania tracks will furnish the city cold patch material for streets at $5.40 a ton. Award for cold patch was made to the Sager Amiesite Sales Co. which assigned the contract to the local production plant.

The Upper Sandusky Construction Co. will furnish all needed road oil at $5.86 a gallon applied to the city streets as the result of an award. This company will also furnish cold tar and medium tar applied to the streets at $11.75 a gallon.

Stone awards were split among three local firms. Various grades of stone for street work were awarded the Daniel Evans Stone Co., while concrete stone awards were given the Ohio Blue Limestone Co. The J. M. Hamilton & Sons Co. was awarded other grades of both concrete and street stone. All stone prices are 90 cents a ton at the quarries excepting chips for street work, which are quoted at $1.16 a ton.

Baldauf & Schlientz were awarded contracts for furnishing Portland cement at 46 cents a sack, quick setting cement at 55 cents a sack, gravel at 88 cents a ton at the pits, concrete sand at 85 cents a ton at the pit, and lake sand at $2.35 a ton at the yard.

The Marion Builders Supply Co. will furnish the city builders sand at $1.85 a ton at the yards.

WHEELING, W. Va.—Because the word "domestic" appeared after the name of a local woman in the current edition of the city directory, the publishing company was forced to send a crew of six men scouring the city for all available copies of the listing to erase the name. The woman, a widow, maintained that she was the head of a household and had never been employed as a domestic.

Few people who witnessed the recent St. Patrick's day parade in New York realized that the Irish Free state's national anthem was written by Victor Herbert for words by Peter Kearney. It is known as "Soldiers of Erin," or "Soldiers' Song." It came into prominence as a war song for Irish volunteers during the revolution, and was adopted later as the national anthem.

HOLD PALM SUNDAY CHURCH SERVICES

Special Programs and Ceremonies Used To Observe Event Here.

Palm Sunday was marked by services in the Episcopal and Catholic churches, and several special programs in other churches of the city.

Palms were blessed and distributed at masses yesterday at St. Mary's Catholic church. The Procession of Palms was the highlight in services at St. Paul's Episcopal church yesterday morning.

New members were received into Protestant churches yesterday, children were baptized and sermons were preached celebrating the anniversary of Christ's entrance into Jerusalem.

A highlight of the services was the presentation of "The Elijah," last night at Epworth M. E. church by the choral societies of Wyandot and Morrow counties and the Bucyrus Music club, under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Long of Marion.

The chorus of 100 voices gave a splendid rendition of Mendelssohn's famous oratorio, assisted by the Epworth Sunday school orchestra under the direction of William Dowler.

The chorus numbers were particularly impressive, with two pianos, the church organ and the orchestra, accompanying the 100 voices. The solo numbers were well sung and the entire oratorio showed careful direction.

GUNMEN RAID CHICAGO STORE

Hold Possession Eight Hours, Escape with $50,000 in Cash and Checks.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 30—Taking possession of the Wieboldt Department South Side store for almost eight hours, seven gunmen, equipped with elaborate burglar tools, yesterday robbed the store's safe of $35,000 in cash and $15,000 in checks and escaped.

The men, who had apparently spent the night in some secluded room, stalked in on Christ Swanson, the engineer, at 6 a. m., yesterday. They tied him to a chair. Then they located Henry McIver, the watchman.

"You're going to pull the alarm boxes as usual," they told him. "If you pull 'em wrong and the police come, we'll know you're the cause the first bullet will be for you."

With that, a part of the gang went off to the office of the store. While some guarded the watchman and engineer, others planted nitroglycerine in the vault doors and still others obtained expensive rugs to muffle the explosion.

It was the second Wieboldt store to be robbed since the first of the year. On Jan. 26 five bandits obtained $19,200, engaged in a pistol due with policemen, and escaped at another Wieboldt store on the northwest side.

WOMAN HELD IN DETROIT DEATH PROBE

Questioned After Her Auto Is Found Near Body of Slain Bootlegger.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., March 30—Mrs. Gertrude Dwyer, 30, owner of the automobile found near the body of Robert Stanley, 31, slain Detroit bootlegger, was held by Detroit police today for questioning in connection with the killing.

Stanley's body was found Saturday in a ditch near Oak Harbor, O., but was not identifed until yesterday. Mrs. Dwyer, to whom license plates of the car were traced appeared voluntarily at police headquarters later in the day.

The woman, police said, declined to account for her time on Friday night and Saturday, other than to say she was in Kalamazoo, a statement which coincided with that of friends interviewed by police. She admitted, she said, that at various times she loaned her car to Stanley and to G. J. Landry, who was named in an invoice for greasing found in the machine.

While admitting that she had searched Stanley's room for "personal effects," after the killing, Mrs. Dwyer would not tell where he lived, police said.

245 AT REUNION OF CHURCH CLASS HERE

Heidelberg College Students Participate in Reformed Services.

Two hundred and forty-five attended the confirmation class reunion services at First Reformed church last night. Five young men from Heidelberg college were here for the occasion.

Fifty of the 58 young people confirmed by Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor, were present for the reunion and responded to the roll call of classes.

E. Harold Klingel, Marion student at Heidelberg, presided during the program. George Shults of Dayton led the singing and sang a solo, "The Song of the Blind Plowman," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Clarabelle Sinning. James Ingram of Dayton, senior at the college gave the scripture lesson and led in prayer. Edward Hawkins of Tiffin played a violin solo, after which Arthur Krueger of Buffalo, N. Y., preached the sermon on "What Think Ye of Christ." Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor, pronounced the benediction.

The five visitors were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Weckmueller Saturday night at the parsonage on South Prospect street.

Daily Proverb—"An egotist is especially hated by all other egotists."

If the accepted Ohio poem was the best of 1,300, it staggers the imagination to figure what the 1,299 could have been.

The time is now near at hand when many cities will revert to daylight saving to give the millions of unemployed more time to hunt for work.

As the result of the explosion of a keg of liquor up in Cleveland, a girl is dead, a woman is expected to diet and five other persons are in hospitals. And people drink stuff like that!

Five months ago a Chicago family, seeking to get rid of a cat, dropped it out of their car in Eau Claire, Wisconsin, ninety-eight miles from Chicago. Last Friday—. But why go on? You've guessed it. "The cat came back."

"Lindy Flies Four Miles Minute in New Plane," reads a headline over a New York City story. The colonel should begin to realize that all the good he has done in advancing aviation would be more than wiped out should he crash with fatal result.

A resolution has been introduced in the Maryland legislature calling for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The Illinois method, to a man on the fence, appears more effective. The Sucker legislature passed a bill to throw the entire onus of prohibition enforcement upon Uncle Sam.

David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of air, announces that the Lexington, half of the navy's air carrier strength, was destroyed during the Caribbean maneuvers—theoretically, of course. That's the beauty about maneuvers! As the losses are theoretical, either branch of the service, sea or air, can make deductions to fit its point of view.

A Chicago policeman stated on the stand when testifying in the trial of Leo V. Brothers up in Chicago that he was the victim of illusions and that he was suffering from an illusion when he identified Frank Foster, identified by others as Brothers, fleeing from the scene of the Lingle murder up there. It has long been suspected that some of the Chicago police were suffering from some ailment, but this classification of it is surprisingly novel.

Data on Prohibition.

The bureau of industrial alcohol in the federal treasury department recently published information on various aspects of prohibition.

In 1911, choosing that year at random, 115,000,000 tax gallons of hard liquor were produced. In 1917, when the war stimulated prohibition sentiment, the total dropped to 75,000,000 gallons. In 1925 and 1928, the total hit a low point of 1,000,000 gallons for each year, but by 1930 it was back up to 3,000,000 gallons. While this was happening, production of tax gallons of alcohol for industrial and medicinal usage went from 69,000,000 up to 212,000,000 gallons in 1917, back to 166,000,000 gallons in 1925, and then up to 192,000,000 gallons in 1930. Thus the total number of gallons of distilled spirits manufactured legally in 1930 was 195,000,000, which was 11,000,000 gallons more than the total of 1911. A vast increased demand for alcohol, arising from wider application in the industrial field must be taken into account when these figures are analyzed.

However, figures showing the number of gallons of tax-paid alcohol and whisky received by physicians, dentists and hospitals during recent years constitute an interesting story.

Hospitals, in 1930, received 7,000 gallons of alcohol and whisky, the same amount they received in 1923. Physicians, however, received 231,000 gallons, as against 65,000 seven years previously. Dentists' totals show an even greater proportionate increase—from 9,000 gallons to 51,000 gallons in seven years. The amount of whisky received by physicians during the same period tripled. Hospital whisky totals decreased one-third.

Other figures, too, have a part to play in building up the background of the first ten years of prohibition in the United States

For instance, 618,000 persons were arrested by federal prohibition officers during the decade; eighty-five federal prohibition agents were killed, and 561 injured. One hundred and sixteen agents were injured in 1930. A new high record as compared to the low mark of thirteen in 1921. Fourteen were killed in 1921, and fourteen in 1930—both high marks. The low record was 1924, when only two were killed.

In 1910 the government derived twenty-nine per cent. of its ordinary revenue from taxes on distilled spirits and fermented liquors; in 1915, thirty-two per cent., and in 1919 only ten per cent.

In 1930, the revenue was negligible, standing at $12,000,000. It is interesting to note also that the amount of distilled spirits remaining in warehouses since the advent of national prohibition has decreased one-third.

The Budding "Power Issue."

Good issues have made noted politicians. Realizing this, ambitious politicians sometimes seek to "build up" good issues for their own advantage. This is what Senator Norris seems to be attempting with power utilities. Ask the man on the street and he will say: "I don't know anything about a power issue." Ask Senator Norris and the little band he heads, and you will be told the power issue is the greatest in the country—and destined to be foremost in the next presidential election.

It is neither reasonable to question Mr. Norris' sincerity, nor to deny that the relation of power utilities to the public may some day be a paramount issue. For the present, however, the power issue is being "built up" unreasonably and out of proportion to its importance in the public mind. The averagely informed citizen, therefore, will do well to take Senator Norris' "power issue" with a liberal sprinkling of salt.

In the first place, the very complexity of the matter makes organization of a crusade easy. The organizers have only to hint that they have suspicions in order to enlist a vast, unorganized weights of prejudiced feeling. The taxpayer is obliged to take the politicians' word for the fact that by registering a protest he is helping himself.

In a primary attempt to comprehend the attitude of Senator Norris toward the power utilities it is sufficient to know that he espouses governmental development of power resources—a policy that never has enlisted public support. The wartime governmental project of Muscle Shoals is his immediate objective; he would have the government operate it as a "yardstick" to measure power rates charged by private companies.

In that proposal, perhaps, can be found the pulse of what Senator Norris hopes will develop into the power issue of the future. There is no way to arrive at positive conclusions by comparing power rates, because no two sets of conditions are identical. For instance, the rate at which electrical energy could be generated at Muscle Shoals and distributed would have no bearing on the rate for which an equal amount of energy could be supplied from the Ohio river—at least, there would be no positive bearing. Thus both sides would be enabled to make statements which could not be contradicted without involved investigation—the conditions necessary to make a perfect issue.

In awaiting the futher development of the matter, the thoughtful citizen will ask himself this question: If there be abuses in the power industry could they be eradicated more efficiently by putting the government into the power business, or by trusting to greater power of governmental regulation over the existing set-up?

During the last two weeks, 793 motorists have been deprived of their licenses in New York state, 409 of them being in the metropolitan district. The New York state authorities must actually be trying to make traffic on streets and highways reasonably safe.

Arnold Bennett.

Readers in America knew Arnold Bennett almost as well as his countrymen in England knew him. His "Old Wives' Tale" achieved rating as a classic many years ago; his plays are familiar to English-speaking audiences everywhere; and his recent books of fiction were received enthusiastically. Along with his several literary contemporaries, Arnold Bennett symbolized the cultural union that easy Anglo-American communication has made possible. Grief over his death is shared by many nations.

Mr. Bennett's outstanding professional characteristics were his remarkable ability to chat with the common man through the medium of print, and his flair for meticulous detail. In private life, he was proverbially witty and pleasant. The vacancy that such a man leaves in his circle of acquaintances is scarcely estimable.

The statesman leaves a record of his diplomatic achievements; the artist leaves his pictures; the athlete leaves his records; the sculptor leaves his statues. Arnold Bennett leaves more than any of these—books and plays that can be reprinted and reproduced for the enjoyment of millions in every corner of the earth for all time to come.

There's a plan afoot for the scrapping of 3,000,000 old automobiles annually. That certainly would remove just about 3,000,000 menaces to safe highway travel.

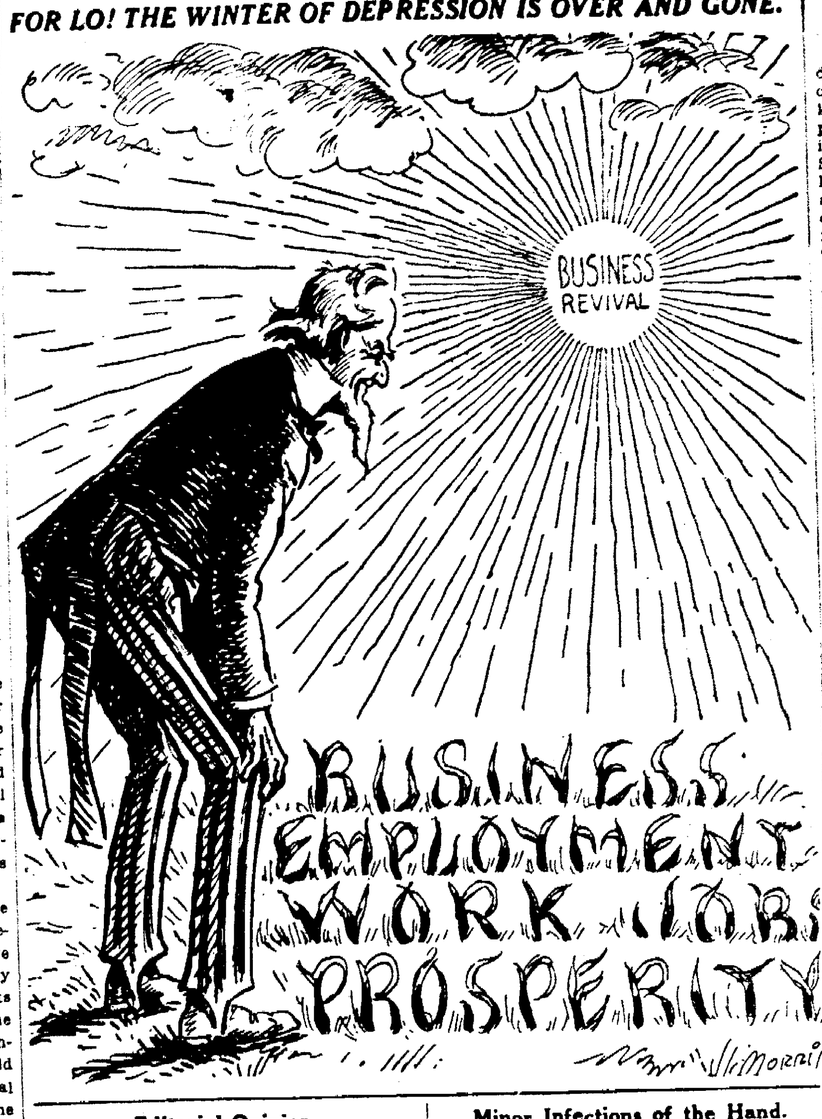
Oscar S. Bodenhausen, of St. Joseph, Missouri, landed in New York City, one day last week, homeward-bound from a de luxe trip around the world which he made on $3,700 saved in dimes from day to day during the last twenty-seven years, and he had $350 left when he reached New York as a nucleus for another trip. If the most enjoyable part of a trip is its planning, as often claimed, think of the delight he must havt experienced during twenty-seven years.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, has projected himself into the controversy over city government rottenness in New York, but don't blame Burton too greatly. It's simply impossible for him to forego breaking into the publicity spotlight, even though he has to jimmy himself into it.

The authorities of British Columbia are utilizing a plan against the Doukhobors, who insist on going about without clothing, which is somewhat remindful in its novelty of the castor oil treatment employed by Premier Mussolini, of Italy. Instead of putting them behind the bars, the authorities sprinkle the nude bodies of the cultists with a powder which causes intense and prolonging itching so long as their bodies are exposed to the air. Not so bad, that.

A New York woman, haled into court for parking her car overtime in the shopping district, was excused by the court when she explained that she had gone into a shop to buy a hat, and that the hats shown her were so lovely that she stopped long enough to try on and buy three. It wasn't necessary for the court to be a second Solomon to understand that womanly irresponsibility in regard to the flight of time under such circumstances might prove a godsend in a period of business depression.

FOR LO! THE WINTER OF DEPRESSION IS OVER AND GONE.



Editorial Opinion.

THE BOURGEOIS MR. GANDHI.

The Third International's intensive and expensive efforts in Asia are always characterized, sooner or later, by a showing of astounding ignorance of Oriental psychology. The demonstrations which the Communist elements in India have been making during the last few weeks, culminating in the attempted assault on Mr. Gandhi at Karachi, are another example of how little rope they need to hang themselves. There can be no doubt in the mind of any one who has watched Moscow's agents harvest the fruit of their sowing in various Eastern countries from Egypt to Corea that their certain reward for the present attempt to discredit the Hindu mahatma in the sight of his followers will be their eventual expulsion from the Nationalist party and the cooperation of that party with the authorities in the laying of the red spirit in India.

Wherever in an Asiatic country which contributes something toward Occidental trade, and therefore toward employment and prosperity in Europe or America, an anti-Occidental movement of any character is born, agents provocateurs arrive from Moscow to burrow their way into it, incite to violence and disrupt normal economic life. These agents turn up with ample funds and concrete campaign plans. They prove themselves expert sloganmakers, mob leaders and hoodlum organizers. They are assets, therefore, to which few native leaders of a half-formed organization, powerful in conversation but weak in execution, can refuse a welcome. But the results are always the same. The agents from Moscow come to think that the movement is theirs and its ends their ends; they underrate the power of the native leader and become truculent if he is moved by expediency to deviate from the policy that Moscow would impose upon him. Instantly the native leader is aware that these alien instruments he has stooped to use are stupid enough to think that they can use him. He asserts himself and disposes of them summarily by the simple device of pointing out to his own retainers that these embarrassing meddlers are aliens, or the henchmen of aliens, whose presence in a nationalistic movement is a pollution that must be purged from it.

In a similar situation in China, soviet agents had their hoodlums cry "Down with Chiang Kai-shek and the Kuomintang," and they are still wondering why they landed outside China with a stunning thud. Now they have their New Youth of India league shout "Down with Gandhi, the betrayer," and if the reaction to this is not another heavy thud and a wail of horror and indignation from the red press throughout the world, the mahatma will indeed have departed from the ancient ways of the East.—New York Herald Tribune.

THE COST OF ILLITERACY.

Illiteracy's toll in crime and other social evils is all too well counted. As machines increase leisure, illiteracy will become more and more a costly social burden. Few, however, realize the direct burden of illiteracy on business.

Alfred K. Stern, director of the Julius Rosenwald fund, says it is time business is shaking this burden from its shoulders:

"The illiterate has neither money to buy manufactured goods nor the means of learning about them through the ordinary channels of advertising," he asserts.

Some $2,000,000,000 is spent annually in advertising in the United States. This means $20 per capita out of a $750 per capita income. Illiterates are economic deadwood. Were each of the estimated 5,000,000 American illiterates able to read, the upward pull of advertising would begin operating to raise each to a buying unit.

The national advisory committee on illiteracy is doing one of the nation's most important jobs. The new census, it is said, will reveal considerable reduction in illiteracy. So long as there are men and women unable to read and write, we can not, however, call ours a successful civilization.—Columbus Citizen.

Minor Infections of the Hand.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In this age of machinery and electrical appliances, with the safety precautions which have been set up, injuries of the hands are not so common as formerly. However, there is yet a great deal of suffering due to carelessness in handling machinery and in neglect of minor infections of the hand.

Fingers are sacrificed and, in some cases, even hands are lost, the penalty of neglecting so simple a thing as a pin prick. This great loss can not be minimized. It brings much misery and suffering, not only to the injured, but to his family, dependent upon him for support.

The hand is so constructed that it contains certain spaces related to the fingers, palm and back of the nand. In these spaces pus can form and accumulate. There are definite anatomical channels through which the pus can spread from one spot to another. By these canals the pus may travel up the arm.

In a case where the danger is unrecognized, where there is neglect of the original infection, the pus may spread so rapidly up the arm as to require immediate amputation. This must be done in order to save the afflicted person's life.

Never neglect an injury to your hands. If it is only a scratch, see that it has proper care. If you prick your finger with a sharp object, be sure that an antiseptic is applied. If after an injury you notice an unusual throbbing of your finger and pain upon motion, please do not delay in seeking proper medical attention.

Do not wait for swelling to occur, and if swelling is present, do not rely entirely upon soaking the hand in hot solution. This is a common method of treatment and it may do no more than to mask the actual danger.

Many such cases require surgery. If surgery is performed early, it will be no more than a small incision. If delayed, it may mean a large incision, and frequently more than one operation. Deformity of the hand usually follows multiple operations. That is abundant reason why immediate and skillful treatment should be had.

Infections which come from rusty objects, such as nails, rusty tin or iron implements, are particularly dangerous, because of the possibility of tetanus infection. All such injuries should be followed immediately by an injection of tetanus antitoxin. This injection should be given as soon as the injury is received and not after the symptoms of infection have appeared.

Guard and respect your hands. They can not be replaced. Immediate care may save you days and weeks of misery.

Birth of a Science.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The invention of the spectroscope, which dates from the year 1859, marks the beginning of the immensely important branch of science known as astrophysics. This instrument has proven revolutionary in widening and deepening our knowledge of the universe as a whole. Secrets which seemed entirely beyond our ken have been disclosed to us in a truly remarkable way. Light, heat, and radiation have come to be recognized as playing roles of the first importance in the mechanism of the material universe.

Sir Isaac Newton was a pioneer in the study of spectrum analysis. He devised methods for splitting white light into the spectral colors, and conversely for recombining they into white light. But the primary phenomena of spectrum analysis, the study of the spectral lines, escaped him. He did not employ a sufficiently restricted light source. Wollaston, in 1802, passing a beam of sunlight through a very narrow slit, observed the spectral lines, but was unable to explain them. Twelve years later, a German optician, Fraunhofer, made a systematic study and catalog of these lines. Although he was unable to explain their significance, he made such a thorough study of these lines that they have been named for him, Fraunhofer's lines.

Newton entertained the view that light was caused by minute particles of matter emanating from a hot body and striking the eye, thus imparting the sensation of light. This corpuscular theory was combated by the Dutch scientist Huyghens, who conceived the idea of the luminiferous ether and thought of light as the vibration of waves in this ether. Thus he explained the phenomena of diffraction, by which light waves when passing a straight edge, spread and bend around the edge.

On the basis of this undulatory theory of light, the atoms of each particular chemical element, when duly excited, give out a certain definite set of waves, peculiar to these atoms. There is a definite length for these different waves, varying with the type of atoms. A wave length, meaning the distance between successive wave crests, may be, for example, one fifty-thousandth of an inch. Waves produce different effects, the longest giving the sensation of red, the shortest the sensation of blue.

It took a great deal of study to determine the meaning of the dark lines in the spectrum. How this was accomplished is lucidly explained by Harlan True Stetson in "Man and the Stars." Let us see, in a simple way, how to recognize the characteristic colors of different substances. For example, a piece of ordinary table salt burned in a hot gas flame gives out an intense yellow light. This is due to the element sodium; and the wave length of sodium light is 0.0000589 centimeters. If I add to the ordinary salt, another salt, strontium chloride, I shall get a very brilliant orange-colored flame. The spectrum from the filament of an incandescent lamp gives a continuous spectrum, from red to violet.

The so-called dark lines in the spectrum are really gaps. If between the source of white light and the prism spectroscope a large mass of cool sodium vapor is inserted, this vapor, at a lower temperature than the light source, has absorbed from the original source that specific band of color which would have been contributed by the sodium vapor, itself. This gap in the yellow of the continuous spectrum shows up as a dark line. This interpretation of the dark lines of the solar spectrum was due primarily to Kirchoff in 1859.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Civil War Congressional Election.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

General E. Kirby Smith did not take Cincinnati—did not even attempt it—when he found what an army of Ohio "Squirrel Hunters" had gathered there to defend it, back in 1862, but he did, as a part of that movement in Kentucky, come pretty near to blowing up a congressional campaign centered at Columbus. The Republicans had nominated Judge Samuel Shellabarger, and S. S. Cox was the Democratic candidate, though he was on a Lincoln and union ticket.

Judge Shellabarger joined the "Squirrel Hunters" and marched to Cincinnati, a fact which his friends did not fail to use in the campaign. Cox remained at Columbus. He had been chiefly instrumental in raising a regiment there for his friend, former Mayor William T. McMillen, of New Orleans, to command. It took the field at once and was sent into Kentucky. Green and inexperienced, these troops were immediately surrounded and captured by General Smith, who, being unable to hold them safely, paroled them with orders to go home and vote for the Democratic candidate for congress.

Of course this parole condition and order soon reached Columbus, and the Republicans made the most of it. Were voters in Ohio to take their orders from a confederate officer in the field in the South as to whom they should send to Washington to represent them?

It seemed to be ideal talking stuff for use by the Republicans in the campaign, and it was generally believed that it would prove fatal to the aspirations of Mr. Cox, but he was a good campaigner, was on record as being against slavery, for the prosecution of the war, indorsed the administration of Mr. Lincoln in a general way, and had just been mainly instrumental in organizing and sending out a regiment for service in the war, and the result was his reelection by a majority much smaller than it would no doubt have been but for the parole order of General Smith.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, March 30—It would be interesting to know what books President Hoover carried along with him when he went aboard the Arizona for a cruise to the West Indies.

For the President rarely goes on a trip without being well supplied with reading material. When he first planned to retire to Palo Alto, visiting the national parks en route, the Library of Congress was called upon for books of all sorts.

There were volumes to explain what he would see in the parks. There were books on economics that he might look into at odd times.

The President is described as one of the greatest book lovers ever to occupy the White House. And he is an ardent collector of books.

Library authorities say that he has the usual faculty for delving in out-of-the-way places, in searching for material not readily accessible.

• • •

When he was in China, for example, he gathered a comprehensive collection of books in many languages on China and the Chinese people. These eventually were donated to Stanford university and became the nucleus of that institution's great Chinese library.

His war library at Stanford is monument to his love for collecting. During the world war, at every opportunity, he gathered documents, pamphlets, proclamations, periodicals, broadsides relating to the war, which in time will be foundation material for the history of that great conflict.

One authority says that Hoover is the greatest book collector among the presidents since Thomas Jefferson; that he resembles Jefferson in that on all his journeys he gathered volumes eventually valuable to the student.

• • •

Coolidge was something of a book lover and collector too. His favorite is said to be "Alice in Wonderland." Several years ago, when an original manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland" was bought in London at an auction by an American, Coolidge invited the purchaser to lunch at the White House with the request that he bring "Alice" along.

He asked many questions about the publication. When it was explained to him that the first edition, not being altogether to Carroll's liking, was suppressed, Coolidge was greatly surprised.

"Suppressed?" said the President. "I didn't know there was anything off-color in it."

Priest Dies After Torture While Captive of Bandits

News of Father Superior Tierney's Death Reaches Shanghai; Slaying Threatened by Communists for Failure To Pay Ransom.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, March 30—Word has been received here by the St Columban's mission of the death March 5 of Father Superior Tierney of the Kiencheng mission while a captive of Chinese Communists. While details of his death were not learned the bandits frequently had said they would kill him if ransom money of $40,000 (silver) were not immediately forthcoming.

In a letter smuggled through his captors some weeks ago, he wrote he was failing and that he was "quite resigned to die."

Father Tierney, superior of St. Columban's mission at Kiencheng, a small interior city located southeast of Nanchang in the south China province of Kiangsi, was captured last Nov. 17. Efforts of authorities to obtain his release were to no avail.

Details of Father Tierney's capture, received here, indicated he was subjected to brutal treatment from the day he fell into bandit hands. A letter from a colleague who investigated the capture stated:

"Father Tierney was captured just at the door of his church. The bandits tied his hands, stripped him and brutally scourged him. Afterwards they threw a soldier's cloak around his shoulders and made fun of his suffering. For five days they kept him in this state, one hand always tied to his body, and they gave him only rice to eat.

"On the fifth day, they left town, taking Father Tierney with them. He managed to find his own clothes again before leaving. After walking for about six miles, he fell and sprained his ankle. They placed him on a ladder and carried him to Nan Feng, a village further on. "Catholic Chinese" at Song Tang Shu who saw him said he was a pitiable sight, suffering from malaria at the time. He looked dazed and was practically incapable of speech."

Father Tierney was a native of Ireland. He was 55 years old, and had preached often in Western New York.

PROSECUTION RESTS IN MARTIN'S TRIAL

"Akron Mary" Expected To Be First Witness Called by Defense.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 30—The state rested its case against "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, charged with murder of former Councilman William E. Potter, shortly before noon today. A defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal was overruled, and defense attorneys announced "Akron Mary" Outland, Hymie's sweetheart, will be the first witness for the defense this afternoon.

"Akron Mary," young, attractive looking, is the "mystery" witness of the case, and until the state rested it had been undisclosed whether she would testify for the prosecution or the defense.

When apprehended in Pittsburgh recently after a month's search in Ohio and Pennsylvania cities, "Akron Mary" claimed Martin was with her in Dormont, Pa., the night of Feb. 3, when Potter was slain.

Mrs. Outland's alibi later was broken down by Martin's own contention that they were in Akron that night.

During the last week of Martin's trial, state's witness have testified Mrs. Outland and Martin were in Cleveland until shortly after 6 p. m. Feb. 3, and that they did not arrive in Akron until about 11:45 p. m. The state contends Potter was slain about 7:15 p. m. in a Cleveland apartment.

Scientific 'Breath-Smeller' New Dry Enforcement Aid

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

INDIANAPOLIS, March 30—A new scientific "breath-smeller" is ready for use by police, enforcement officers and suspicious spouses.

It registers any degree of drunkenness, merely by catching some of the drinker's breath and is so sensitive that it detects alcohol even when all odor is expurgated from the breath. It was perfected by Dr. R. N. Harger, of the medical school of the University of Indiana.

The suspected breath is blown into a 10-cent store toy balloon. From there it is bubbled through a red liquid, which speedily turns almost white if there is alcohol.

Should the drinker object to blowing balloons, it is only necessary to hold a small glass suction tube within an inch of two of his nose or mouth. Even if the tube sucks in 10 times as much outside air as exhalation, the bubbler still works accurately.

Dr. Harger said that need for testing drunken drivers of automobiles was responsible for producing the breath-smeller. He credited Emil Bogen, M. D. of Cincinnati, with starting the breath indexing method.

His red fluid also works more readily than previous detectors. It is a combination of potassium permanganate, which gives the red color, and of a certain critical amount of sulfuric acid. He said this method is as accurate as blood and other bodily chemical tests.

It shows how much alcohol the blood carries. One part of alcohol in 1,000 of blood by weight is the beginning of intoxication. Five parts means dead druhk—six parts almost certain death. This is true of all persons, he said, even those who drink heavily without drunkenness. Such persons tolerate the extra alcohol because it does not go into their blood but is burned and excreted.

He estimates that it takes about three ounces of whisky in a 150-pound man to produce the beginning of drunkenness.

put any funds entrusted to them at work and keep them at work. In recognition of this fact, building and loans are not required by law, nor has been the custom, to carry large cash reserve as do banks, to guarantee the withdrawal of funds on short time notice. Building and loan associations are more or less community affairs.

"Those having money and desiring to have it secured by first mortgage upon real estate place it in building and loan associations, this money being placed at various times and in various amounts. Those desiring to borrow money do so, and give as security for it a first mortgage upon their home or other real estate, and pay it back in small payments extending over a period of years.

The industrious and frugal borrower is just as essential to the success of an association as the depositor. Without the borrower, the depositors' money would lie idle. Without the depositor, there would be no money available for the borrower, so that each class is dependent upon the other. Thus it is apparent that if the depositing member desires his money in any amount in excess of the ordinary income of the building and loan company, it can not be secured on demand, or sooner than the ordinary income from the association would permit it to pay. It would be manifestly unfair and cruel to subject the borrowing member's home to sale in times like this. On the other hand, when the money is loaned to the borrower, it is loaned upon a definite contract of monthly payments, and for a definite time upon the faith and belief that the depositing member is leaving his money in the institution for the purpose of making these loans.

"With the heavy demand from the patrons of the association for their money which would be far in excess of the normal income of this company for several months to come, it was deemed advisable to notify the state department of the situation. The assets of the association must be preserved and protected for the equal benefit of all patrons placing their money in the association, as well as for the members who have in good faith borrowed this money and placed mortgages on their homes, believing that the depositors would let them have their money over the period of time covered by their mortgages, and that they would not be required to meet any demands excepting their regular monthly payments, and under our by-laws this can not be done without the intervention of the court.

"Both depositors and borrowers must be protected for the good of our community, and with this thought in mind the common pleas court was requested to intervene. There is no reason why, after the present depression subsides, both of these classes of members can not be coordinated. Marion is a good town, real estate has always commanded fair prices and a fair market. There will be recovery from the present depression just as there always has been recovery from every depression period in the past.

In January, 1930, I assumed the responsibility of president of this association, after retiring from active business, hoping, for the good of the community that the problems of this company could be solved, but instead of the recession passing with 1930, in reference to real estate in particular, it has been intensified in 1931. The funds of this association are generally loaned on Marion homes and Marion real estate. These values are still sound although the market for them at the present time is greatly depressed. To save needless sacrifice of these properties the directors of our company have asked the court to take charge."

Tragedy Ends Life of Former "Follies" Girl

Neurasthenia Attack Blamed for Suicide of Mrs. David Townsend ni Driving Automobile Off 200-Foot Cliff in France.

By The Associated Press

NICE, March 30—Her nerve bolstered by two stiff brandies, Mrs. David Townsend, former Broadway "Follies" girl, drove her car off a 200-foot precipice near here and found in death the rest that life denied her.

While she drank she scribbled a note to her husband, reputedly wealthy Wall street broker, which read:

"Please take care of my mother. Pay 4,000 francs to Wally." Another paragraph which referred to the possibility of her going back to the stage was undecipherable.

When she did not show up Saturday evening for an opera party which she had planned, friends sought her, but their search was unavailing. Sunday morning police saw her car crushed on the rocks below one of the sharpest precipices on the Riviere.

Her husband could think of no reason, he said, why she should have ended her life, other than that she had suffered a sudden neurasthenic attack, such as had bothered her intermittently.

Police investigating the suicide identified her as the former Margaret Laird of Birmingham, Ala., born in 1899. She and Townsend were married six years ago. She was known to the New York stage as Peggy Davis.

Florenz Ziegfeld said in New York today that there had been a dozen Peggy Davises on Broadway, many of them in his "Follies" and that he did not know if the Nice suicide was the Peggy Davis of Birmingham, Ala., who was first married in 1918 at the age of 12 or 14 to Lieutenant Colonel Joseph Alexander Davis of the ordinance department, who afterward proved to have been married before and not divorced.

That marriage was annuled and Peggy Davis in 1921 married Joseph Donald Grafton. She was said then to be 15 or 17 years old and he represented himself as a Pittsburgh millionaire. The next year he was indicted for bigamy. The marriage with Miss Davis was annulled.

MAN FOUND SLAIN IN EASTERN OHIO

Racketeer "Taken for Ride," Is Belief After Discovery of Body.

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 30—Jefferson and Belmont county authorities are cooperating in a search for the slayers of Jack Ficoratti, 35, Wheeling racketeer whose body was found in an abandoned cemetery at Highland city, on the border line of the two counties, early Sunday morning. Authorities believe that he was "taken for a ride."

The body was found by John Chrillulis, 17, and his 15-year-old brother Steve. It was lying on the bank of the Ohio river, part of the body being submerged. Coroner Arch Bell of Jefferson county found that he had been shot twice through the head. Automobile tracks leading from the road through the old cemetery were visible.

Both Sheriff Howard Duff of Belmont county and Sheriff W. J. Yost of Jefferson county, said that Ficoratti was known throughout the Wheeling district as a bootlegger.

WOMAN SENTENCED IN INSURANCE PLOT

New Trial Refused Mrs. Courley, Convicted of Conspiracy To Shoot Husband.

By The Associated Press

MARIETTA, O., March 30—Motion for a new trial for Carrie Gourley, who was convicted of conspiring to have her husband, George, killed, was overruled today by Judge Thomas. He sentenced her to serve from one to 20 years in the reformatory at Marysville.

Defense attorneys gave notice they would carry the case to the court of appeals on error. The court refused to accept bond and to stay the sentence, and Mrs. Gourley will be taken to Marysville.

Mrs. Gourley was convicted of having hired Charles Whiting and her son, Harry to shoot Gourley so she could collect his insurance. Whiting, now in Ohio penitentiary, pleaded guilty to shooting Gourley. Gourley defended his wife during the trial. The son is to be tried later.

After Mrs. Gourley was convicted, Whiting made a statement clearing her in the case and accepting all the blame himself.

John West Admits He Didn't Know Wife Darkened Hair

—Darkens Hair—

So Naturally No One Can Tell

When I see gray I see old age. Youth is every woman's right, so don't let hair get gray. Just use this improved formula made from that wonderful old recipe of common sage tea and sulphur. Nothing better. Gray disappears overnight. And after two or three applications your hair will be the exact shade you want. So evenly, so naturally darkened nobody'll ever know. Just pay your druggist 75c for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur and follow the simple directions.—Adv.

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry— with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

These results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

Hospital Board Wants Books for Use of Patients

ANY books, any magazines, any puzzles, or games, today?

Housecleaning time and there's always magazines and books and children's toys and puzzles and games to be cleared away.

The Woman's Hospital board is anxious that any magazines or books that will be discarded in housecleaning time be turned over to the board to be distributed to the patients at City hospital.

The board recently purchased a portable magazine and book rack which is moved from one room to another in the hospital so that the patient may select his own reading matter.

Children's books and magazines are always acceptable at the hospital. The library of adult reading matter has become rather worn and at present is too small to afford a great variety for the inveterate readers who are convalescing.

Mrs. H. Edmund Keller is chairman of the book and magazine committee of the board and on her committee are Mrs. Daniel Evans and Mrs. Clifford Owens.

Anyone having reading matter or children's books and games may call Mrs. Keller of 372 East Center street at 3168, or Mrs. Carl W. Leffler of 224 South Greenwood street at 7220, and the material will be called for.

probably will never see each other again." His little daughter was found dying shortly after he departed.

Bryan Untiedt, who insisted on being the last to be taken from the bus and then collapsed, apologized after he revived for "slapping the little children."

"I'm sorry I had to hit them," the boy told his father, "but I couldn't make them keep moving any other way. I slapped some of them pretty hard and it made them mad, so I slapped them again and they tried to fight me. When they hit me back I didn't mind because I knew they were moving when I did it. They wouldn't fight very long and I had to slap them again."

West Digs from Snow

The middle-west, digging out from a snowstorm which took a known toll of 16 lives last week, found its efforts mocked by a fresh fall today.

Snow began falling in the Rocky Mountain states of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana yesterday and late last night was falling in Nebraska, Kansas nd Western Missouri. Temperatures were moderate, however, and there was no wind. Forecasts were for precipitation in Oklahoma and northern Texas today.

The known death list reached 16 yesterday when the body of Boyd Edwards, seven-year-old Max, Nebr., school boy was recovered in a snow-filled canyon, midway between his farm home and the school house which he left Thursday. Finding of the boy's body culminated a three-day hunt.

Just Things

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

Ideals

JUST what has become of your ideal of a beautiful girl, oh, say a couple or three decades ago? It's something of a job to even find time to reminisce a little bit in this "bizzy dizzy" day but at least there's food for thought in the question. Rummaging around in the little old memory satchel, perhaps you will find you had more than one. The most embarrassing moment in the childhood of one who sought to pattern her life after one of Bertha M. Clay's heroines, had to do with one of her ideals, and although much water has run under the bridge since then, she still remembers. Picture if you will a very pretty girl, with lovely clothes, a fur coat and oh, the loveliest white beaver hat with loads of plumes, a fine team of horses and money, well enough that she didn't have to worry about her breakfast check. Of course something would happen before the worshiping one attained her majority that would bring these very same things into her own life. But all that is beside the story. This ideal, who was a very good friend of the worshiping one's family had occasion to drop in for a friendly little call just about the dinner hour, (supper it was then)) and of course that would be the night that someone would break down under the urge for pancakes. And there was that ever present pancake-y odor which as everyone knows has a way of seeking out every crevice and cranny of the premises, and a pan[illegible] every door would have proclaimed no more loudly the bill of fare. The idealist always has a secret feeling that she would have stayed longer had not the pancakes been so much in evidence but to all appearances the rest of the family failed to share her suspicions.

Urge

Now that the garden is planted and coming along fine, it is time to turn to the painting. Chairs and lamp stands, which to the casual observer haven't changed since this time last year, to the owner with the itchy palm, look perfectly hideous. Nothing short of a royal coat of paint can possibly make them at all bearable or wearable. But list, if you can stave off the urge for a few days you will recover from that too, and these objects, like the garden, will be just something else that you're glad didn't happen.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Excerpt from the "Other Woman" Confessing Katherine in a State of Collapse.

I had not realized that Katherine was behind me until she spoke. I had heard slow, dragging footsteps coming towards me, and wondered if they were those of my landlady. But before I could turn my head, Katherine had spoken in tones so hoarsely strained and so different from her usual modulated tones, that if she had not been standing there I would have recognized her voice as neither.

I turned quickly toward her and took from her tremulous hand the letter from South America which had shaken her, shaken as I had never been her, into my room for the few minutes she needed in order to regain herself back to composure.

"So now," I said in matter-of-fact tones, averting my eyes after my first glance at her pallid face with its deeply etched lines around lips and eyes which told of mental stress and suffering, "and wait for a little while until you decide that I shall read this. I have nothing to do except to sit here with you, so do not hurry yourself into any decision."

"Don't," she said tensely, and there was that in her voice which made me turn my eyes upon her again. She was looking at me with the frightened appeal of a lost child and I put out my hands and caught her cold ones in mine, holding them tightly while I drew her to a big double chair, on the veranda, yet screened by the lattice work from the sight of anyone on the lawn below.

"Wait!" I commanded as I put her into the chair. Then I went back to the door leading into the hall and closed and locked it before coming back to her.

"Now, dearest," I said, sitting down beside her, "no one can possibly disturb us, and do you know what I think you need more than anything else?"

"A good cry, I suppose," she said monotonously, and shook her head in a mournful negative. "No, Madge, I wish I could, but there isn't a tear in me, nothing so tender. I'm all venom like a cobra. Read that thing, and you'll realize why I can't weep."

She shrank back into the corner of the seat and I realized that it was not from me she was withdrawing, but that she unconsciously was trying to get as far as possible from the letter which I held in my hand. There was no use postponing the thing any longer, but it was with distinct distaste for my task that I opened the letter, and turned to the first page, written in beautiful chirography, so exact that it aroused a quick antagonism in me—it seemed inhuman, somehow, in its very perfection.

The Letter

"Mrs. John Beckett,
"The Graham Farm,
"Sag Harbor L. I.

"Dear Mrs. Beckett:

"This was the beginning of the letter, exactly as if it were a business communication, but the opening sentence ended all likeness to a commercial letter, although no answer a note ever held more deadly coldness:

"I am not going to beat about the bush with you," it said, "for you are a trained nurse, well used to facing facts. I want Jack Beckett, and he wants me. You stand in the way. Will you divorce him?—you can easily do it for desertion and mental cruelty—he has told me how he has treated you realizing now that neither of you was to blame—it was because you were not really mated in any way that he unconsciously rebelled against the yoke of marriage and manifested it by his moods.

"He has been ill mentally and physically since coming down here. Now I am winning him back to mental and physical health. The only thing which is troubling him is an outmoded and outdated conscience concerning you. You surely are not the type of woman who wishes to hold a man against his inclinations, a man whose whole heart and soul are given elsewhere.

"Of course if you write him concerning this, he will consider himself in duty bound to deny his own heart—he does not know that I am writing this. But I have heard him wish many times that you could find your real mate—as he has found his—so that he could seize his happiness without regret and I have at last determined to lay the facts before you. I am confident that you will see the wisdom—and the good taste—of quietly stepping out of his life in the way best calculated to spare him pain.

"May I suggest that the most effective way would be for you to write him a letter, not referring to this, but saying that you have met someone who is necessary to your happiness, and that you would like him to release you? No doubt, that is true enough by this time, for I understand that you are quite an attractive woman.

"I do not expect an answer to this letter, but if you do send one, may I suggest that it might be better if it were a typed one with the postmark New York City upon it?

"Yours very truly,
RUTH ALLEN."

I read the poisonous epistle through, and then, feeling a reluctance to look at Katherine, I turned back to the superscription, and read it through again, very slowly. Then at last, I looked up and met her eyes strained, suffering, fixed upon my face.

"What do you think of it?" she faltered.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday and it rained and rained. If my ant had any idee that she would run short of water to wash me in I bet she felt better when she heard the rain coming down like it did, but she probably wished it would rain soap and washrags and scrubbing brushes, too. I pushed Jubilee out of bed and got the rope out from under the board in the attic, and while I was letting him down the rain ran through the hole in the eve trough and spattered on the back of my neck and ran down the spine of my back into the hall, so I was glad when he reached the ground, and I bet he was glad so he could dodge under the house, but when I had wiped myself on my short britches and put them on and went down and got outside with the milk pail, he had come out from under the house and was running around the yard in the rain like he thought he was a duck; and when I was legging it from the back door to the barn with my head down and the pail flying he ran to jump up on me, but all he done was to get between my legs and send me a belly-slammer in the slop in front of the barn door, and I pushed my face in the mud, and the pail scooped up some mud and water. All I did was set up in the mud and look at him, and he danced around like he had done something smart and was proud of it.

I went back to the corner of the house and was wrenching the mud and water out of the milk pail when I heard a yoo-hoo, and there were Maggie and Youniss and Feeble wearing their rubber coats and rubber boots, and they asted me what was the matter and I told them what Jubilee had done, and then I started to run to the barn again, and they started to run with me, and just when I got almost to the barn again someone gave me the foot, and I fell down again and rolled over. I know it was Feeble, but I couldn't prove it, and they all laughed and hollered, so I had to laugh too, and I scooped up a lot of muddy water in the pail and baptized Feeble with it, and they went in the barn and I went back to wrench the pail out again, and when I started back the barn door busted open and out they came, and they had tooken off their rubber coats and boots and they had their bathing suits on, and went playing tag in the rain whilst I milked the dummed brutes. I used to have a bathing suit but I couldn't find it after breakfast, so I went out anyhow and we made dams in the gutter, and had a mud battle and didn't go to Sunday Sunday school, and I didn't get ant-washed and we had a lot of fun, because it rained all day.

Today was Monday and it didn't rain, but the thunder was rolling all around the sky all day, and we went fishing off the dam and caught a lot of sun fish.

MYSTERIOUS WAVE

(Copyright, 1931, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.)

CHAPTER 25

Dr. Charters' Son

SWIFTLY he opened his door and crept into the corridor.

Stooping low, Wave caught a glimpse of the outline of a dark figure between himself and the tall window that framed the star-spangled sky. Running, he crept swiftly in its direction. It disappeared. Touching each door as he passed it, he came to one that was ajar. Softly pushing it open, he said:

"Come out," and stood aside, his left hand raised and levelled.

Scarcely had he done so, when the dark figure reappeared between him at the window at the end of the corridor. Instantly a beam shone from a tiny torch in Wave's left hand, and almost instantaneously his right hand shot forth—a blow delivered with a skilled athlete's strength, enhanced by the irrepressible fury of long-pent rage.

The heavy fist crashing upon James's jaw, drove his head against the stone wall. Without a groan he sank to the ground.

"You damned dog," whispered Wave, and, not gently, stirred the inanimate form of Mr. James with his foot, ere removing the black handkerchief that was tied about his face . . .

There was a movement within the room; the door was opened.

"What is it?" asked Marjorie.

"Sshl It's all right," whispered Wave, putting his finger to his lips, he motioned to her to go back into the room.

"It's that man!" she said.

"Yes . . . He's fainted."

Turning to her table, Marjorie caught up the jug of water.

"We can't leave him like this."

And, kneeling beside the prostrate man, she sprinkled water upon his face and hands.

"Don't child," protested John Wave. "I hate to see you touch the reptile. I'll drag him . . ."

"Get me the glass," said Marjorie. "I believe he's dead."

With a shrug John Wave fetched the glass of water from Marjorie's bedside-table.

"Pour a little more on his hands and head," she directed. "Now raise him up a little."

Mr. James stirred and opened his eyes, groaned and closed them again.

Semi-conscious and faint. "What the hell?" sighed Mr. James, and drank.

And, as the man and girl watched him, Mr. James jerked convulsively, sat up suddenly, glared at the glass and at the girl who held it in her hand; clutched his throat; and, with hoarse voice, cried:

"You've killed me," and, as a violent contortion twisted his body, died—poisoned by the draught he had himself prepared.

Seizing Marjorie's trembling hands in a firm, steadying grip, Wave soothed and comforted her. "He really died of the blow I . . ."

"Rubbish," interrupted the girl. "I'm all right now . . . I understand. He came in here and poisoned the water in the glass. I drank a glassful before I went to sleep, and poured out some more . . . . It was quite all right before I went to sleep."

"Dress as once," Wave said. "We're going now. Get ready quickly, and just bring what you must."

"I'll be ready—but don't be long . . . . And can you take that away?" she added, with a shuddering glance at the bent body.

"Leave everything to me."

Closing the door behind him, Wave, within the minute, had flung Mr. James's body on Mr. James's bed.

Sister Weldon was a light sleeper, and tapping at her door brought her out of bed and into dressing-gown and slippers.

"Sister, it's time for us to act," Wave said as she opened the door. "The man James went into Marjorie Lauderdell's room and poured poison into the glass of water on her bedside-table. I caught him coming away, and knocked him down for going into the girl's room at 4 in the morning."

"Marjorie came out and insisted on trying to bring him 'round, gave him the water in the glass to drink."

"It killed him. I'm going to tell Charters what happened."

"Can't I do anything?" she inquired.

"You can sister. You can get the girl out of this house and take her to your brother. I'll come with you."

"Certainly. I'll ring up Levitt at the gate-house, and tell him the car is to be on the road, in five minutes, and that I shall be taking two patients away . . . He'll obey me as he would the doctor himself. He'll be perfectly content to let you go off in my charge. I'm coming back, as soon as I have seen you both safe in the vicarage."

A minute later she turned from the telephone. "It's all right unless the doctor acts first, and . . ."

"I shan't call him until you and Marjorie are out of the house," interrupted Wave.

"I've got something to say to him. Something that's got to be said. If I don't join you within 10 minutes don't wait for me."

Dr. Charters sat up, instantly, wide awake, as his light was switched on, and a harsh voice said:

"Get up."

"Yes. What's the matter?"

"Murder's the matter. Your treacherous pensile James."

"The doctor swung out of bed.

"Murdered?" he cried.

"No. Punished for murder. Come with me. Hie now."

Charters dashed ahead of Wave up the stairs and threw open the door of James' bedroom.

In a few seconds his professional eye told him the worst, and as Wave entered the room he saw the immovable man suddenly burst into tears and heard him with trembling arms rise about
